Attempt to Show the Payment of the London Drafts-Early Adjournment of Court.

Robinson, receiving teller of the bank, was ing session and his cross-examination begun to be illegal. Judge Baker said, however, tions. Then began a tedious examination of the deposits made day by day and the character of the paper deposited. This was not completed till about half past 3 o'clock, when the court adjourned. The adjournment was had thus early to permit some of the jurors to return to their homes.

his description of paper in the bank credthis paper was concluded Mr. Winter asked ed putting this paper in evidence. "We do not intend to put it in evidence, your evidence," replied Mr. Burke. Mr. Winter objected to this, and the court ruled that if the government did not put the paper in evidence at that time the defense might do so upon cross-examina-

The witness then read the paper constituting the cash items held in his drawer to the credit of the cabinet company at the time of the failure. The total amount of the cabinet company and the Boston branch was taken up, and it was shown that within two months after the incorporation of the company it had paper to the amount $22,603.33 in the bank. At the end of these two months the books showed that the total amount of merchandise purchased by the Boston branch from all sources amountamounted to $4,804.36. It was also shown that the Boston branch owed the cabinet company at this time $5,631.42. The witness testified that the bank had held notes of John M. Roberts, father-in-law of F. A. Coffin, amounting to $5,600, and that Roberts was considered by the bank to be solvent at this time, but these notes were afterwards exchanged for notes of the plow company, and these latter notes were after-wards charged to profit and loss by the order of Haughey.

THE ROBERTS PAPER. Mr. Robinson testified that the total amount of the Roberts paper placed in the bank and afterwards taken out by other paper was $19,154.99. The bank never realized anything upon any of this paper which was substituted for the Roberts paper. The checks for the pay rolls of July 15 and 22, 1893, were then read by the witness, showing that on the former date $1,550 and on the latter date $1,750 were drawn from the bank to meet the pay roll. The witness then referred to the books of the cabinet company under date of Oct. 15, 1892, and testified that on this date the company had sold to O. M. Murphy, as trustee, a cretain patent in consideration of $1. He then referred to the books of the United States Office Furniture Company, and testified that on Dec. 24, 1892, this same patent had been purchased by the United States company for $5,000, which constituted the capital stock of the company.

Mr. Robinson was then passed to crossexamination by Mr. Winter. It was 10 o'clock when the cross-examination was begun by the defense. The first point to which the attention of the witness was called was the paper of the American Desk and Seating Company, of Chicago, and District Attorney Burke objected to the question, but the court ruled that the defense might put the paper in evidence under cross-exmination and examine the witness upon it. It was shown to consist of three notes of the aggregate value of $2,802.97. Mr. Winter then took up the testimony relating to the checks drawn on the pay roll of dates of July 15 and 22, 1893. It was shown that on the first date, when the company checked out $1,550, it had deposited paper to the amount of $1,557,39. While Mr. Winter was examining the witness as to the character of the paper deposited on this date he was passed a note by F. A. Coffin, and immediately asked if the bank had collected all of this paper, and the witness replied that it had. The amount drawn for the pay roll of July 22, 1806, was then taken up, and it was shown that on that day the company had deposited $1,756.79 in paper. He said none of this was represented in the $375,000 of paper testified to, and all of it had been lected by the bank. He said that since the failure of the bank he had been employed by the receiver, but his entire time had been devoted to work in connection with expert Hays.

ONE DRAFT PAID Mr. Winter then directed his cross-examination to count No. 1, which charges the misapplication of $5,802.84, the amount maturity to the Indianapolis bank through its New York correspondent. During this examination Mr. Burk objected to Mr. Winter asking the witness what was meant by an entry upon a book, but Mr. Winter retorted that the government had introluced the witness as an expert and the deense thought he was competent to testify, as an expert, what was meant by any entry. Judge Baker permitted the question to stand and the witness interpreted the entry to mean that the draft concerning which the entry was made had been paid. In answer to questions by Mr. Winter the witness then said the cabinet company made its large deposits once a week, usual y when its representative came to the bank to draw money for the pay roll. He said a large number of these deposits were paper on customers of the company. Mr. Robinson said he did not know whether the aggregate amount of the paper on the customers exceeded that on the branch concerns or not. The paper on customers was usually short-time paper.

Mr. Winter then entered into a detailed examination of the deposits made by the cabinet company to show that the aggregate amount of the paper on customers deposited was largely in excess of the paper on the branch concerns. The witness turned in the books of the bank to the date of Jan. 1, 1891, and testified that during this month the company had deposited aggregating $47,429.85. Then Mr. took up the examination of each specific item, or day's deposit, during this onth for the purpose of showing what aper was customers' paper. The examinaposited during that month all but $10,100 was customers' paper, which was legiti-mately cash items. The month of May, 1892, was then taken up and a detailed examination of all the deposits of that month was made with the same purpose of showing that the deposits of customers' paper was largely in excess of the deposits of that of the company or its various branches. The total deposits for this month were shown to be $52,180.62. The total amount of the company's paper deed during this month was $12.815.76. then the month of June, 1893, was taken up and the same detailed examination of sits for that month made. The total osits were $49,600 and the cabinet company's paper amounted to $13,990.40. The court then adjourned till 2 o'clock.

THE COMPANY'S DEPOSITS. Ugon the convening of the court for the afternoon session Judge Baker cautioned the jurors, should they go to their homes over Sunday, not to talk with any one, not even the members of their family, nor !

permit any one to talk to them about the case. The cross-examination of Mr. Robinson was taken up by Mr. Winter, and the attention of the witness called to the period of time covered in counts Nos. 12, 14 and 15, which was from March 3 to June 19, 1893, and asked the witness to give the total amount of the deposits made by the cabinet company within that time. The witness then took up the deposits in detail, giving the amount deposited on each day during the period covered by these counts of the indictment. The total deposits for the month of April amounted to $58,048.73, of which $25,175.58 was the cabinet comny's paper. The total deposits for the month of May were $75,688.16, of which $56,972.73 was cabinet company's paper. The total deposits for the month of June up to and including June 19 were $49,209.30, of and including June 19 were $49,209.30, of which amount $23,102.75 was cabinet company's paper. Then the deposits for the month of July up to and including July 13 were taken up and the total deposits were shown to have been $16,698.45, of which items held in the drawer of Mr. Rbinson and the returned Boker draft on Mexico company's paper for the month of July up to and including the 13th, $22,248.38. Then aggregate amounts of the deposits for which amount $141,431.97 was cabinet comany's paper, leaving a balance of $108,-18.45, representing the paper of the customers of the cabinet company deposited durwould like to take up, which was the otal amount of checks drawn by the cabinet company during this period. This he said would take considerable time, and as it was then near half-past 3 o'clock he suggested that the adjournment be taken

Superintendent Powell dropped into a Mayor's office, and told of some of his experiences when he first began life for him-As that was his first position, and he was retain it, so said nothing about the shortage to his employer, for fear he might be considered too careless to hold an imporing he was again short $5. He began to think that someone was stealing the money. Still he said nothing about it, but watched everybody in the office. Every evening ended with the same result, a shortage of this paper was $885.40, and consisted of drafts for small amounts on various firms.

Then the condition of accounts between he was gone to his dinner, so he concluded to get a lunch down town one day and he could watch for the thief. He intended to secrete himself in a closet and await developments, but what was his surprise when he reached the door of the office to look in through the glass and see his employer deliberately open the cash drawer and take out a five-dollar bill. He faced his employer ready to fight. "So this is where my shortage has been going, is it?" If there are two keys to this drawer I want both of them." "I don't know how you will get them; this is my office," his employer answered. Finally, after an angry discussion, Mr. Powell was put to other work and a new cashier employed. The new man had the same experience for about a week. At the end of that time ne was short a few dollars more than his week's salary, so he concluded to resign. The next man to take the place hap-pened to be an intimate friend of Mr. Pow-ell. Mr. Powell heard of the engagement before the new man came to accept the position. It did not take him long to ex-plain the condition of affairs to his friend, and between them they decided on a course of procedure. When the new man came to work the next morning he asked how many keys there were to the cash drawer. The employer told him that there were two, which he would retain and the other be given to the cashier. Following out the plan outlined by Mr. Powell, the cashier told Mr. T— that if he was honest enough to handle the cash for the office he was honest enough to hold both keys, and that he could not accept the position and be responsible for the money without both keys in his possession. Finally the keys were turned over, and from that time on shortage was never known in that such dealings had been carried on in that office, but he says he learned afterwards that before he discovered the trick of his employer there had been a new cashler in the office every two or three weeks. He is confident that the employer had been stealing from the cash drawer for a long ime, and then charging the amount of the hortage to his cashier, thus getting the services of a cashler for nothing.

THE WAGNER MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Selections from the "Walkuere" to Be Given-Fischer to Sing.

Selections from the "Walkuere" will be given at the Wagner Music Festival to-morraw. It is seldom that a band attempts to lections commence with that great instrumental piece, "Ride of the Valkyries." The Valkyries were war maidens, daughters of heroes in battle and to carry the slain to Walhalla, the palace of the gods, there to enjoy forever the delights of a happy and vigorous existence. This selection, which is one of the most extraordinary orchestral pieces of this generation, represents the weird ride of the sisters and their wild Sousa's band will arrive to-morrow. There are indications of a large attendance at he matinee at Tomlinson Hall in the afternoon and the performance in the evening when Emil Fischer, the great basso, will sing. Miss Royer, the prima donna, is a soprano highly complimented by musical

THE SCHOOL ENUMERATION.

Children at School and Children Out at Work.

The statistics prepared by W. C. Neware of considerable interest. The number of children enumerated was: Colored, 3,901; white, 33,668; total, 37,569. The number of children at work is as follows: White boys, 3,616; white girls, 3,293; colored boys, 158; colored girls, 179. The number of children over ten years who cannot read or write is classified thus: White boys, 63; white girls, 47; colored boys, 17; colored girls, 16. There are probably forty thousand families in this city, and of this number the enumerators found that 15,944 families had chil-

The Helmbach Divorce. Louisa Heimbach was yesterday granted a divorce from her husband, Joseph Heimbach. The decree was made by Judge Winters in Room 1. Three months ago the Helmbachs were before the court with an application for a separation, but Judge Vinters sent them home with instructions to effect a reconciliation if possible. Yester-day the couple came forward again and in-formed the court that life with each other was unbearable and prayed for a legal sep-aration. The couple live on Lincoln lane.

He Admits His Heart Has Been Touched by a Young Lady.

She Will Accompany the Army to Washington-Industrial Treasury Swollen-The Departure.

"General" Fry yesterday settled the rumor that a fair maiden of eighteen years, who has been engaged in working for the army, with headquarters at the hotel, since his stay in this city, and himself had been traveling the June path where Cupid loses roses. The two have been thrown much together. She admired, Desdemona like, his deeds of valor and his readiness to speak at all times and upon all subjects, while he adored her youthful enthuslasm for the cause of the commonwealer, made more delightful by her personal charms. He was asked point blank about the matter yesterday and replied, after a peculiar smile and in slow forcible terms: "Well, what of it? Who has got a better right than we? It's nobody's business but ours. I think a woman is no good if she hasn't anything to admire or take care of, and the same way with a man. I don't say that we are engaged, but I don't deny that I am mixed up in a case of reciproc-

"Were you ever married before?" "Yes, but my wife died a number of years ago. I have one child, a little girl five years old, living in California."

"What arrangements have you made for the future in regard to this matter?" The answer was volunteered by one said: "Oh, well, the girl is going with him. She is going with the army-a-going to stick with it until it gets to Washington." stated that she was serenely happy over the prospect of the future, and the "General," as he said so, wore a smile that well told that the prospects were not "General" Fry are now becoming rapidly filled through the proceeds of the sales of "The History of the Commonweal." A large number of the army are daily engaged in selling the book, and, as it is claimed by the "General," are meeting fair success. Friday the sales amounted about one thousand copies. The books cost the army 20 cents each, and, though the regular price of the book is 50 cents, many tant position. The next day he was careful It is "anything to make money for the to count all money twice, but in the evenof the army are selling them for 30 cents. day that there was over $500 in the treasury. A large tent has been bought at a cost of $185 for the use of the army, and will be used as a barracks after leaving Indianapolis until Washington is reached.

FRY LEAVES TO-DAY. Rain Alone, He Says, Will Make Him

Tarry Longer. "General" Fry and his army will march out of the city this morning at 7 o'clock, if it don't rain, so the various members of the army announced last night. Small detachments of the army, numbering about twenty-five, under special officers, held impromptu gatherings on a number of the most prominent street corners last night, and stated that they would leave the city at the above hour, and also attempted to get recruits. The large crowds which instantly collected when the detachments stationed themselves on a corner immediately dispersed when the hat in the hands of trusted commonwealer was passed around for a collection. About $5 was collected by the entire army in this way.

"General" Fry stated yesterday that he had received a letter from one of his numerous friends in Texas, offering to furnish the army with mules sufficient to mount the army, and also a quantity of

"Well, we'll accept the mules all right," said the "General," "but we don't need the firearms yet. The people laugh at the offer of firearms, but let me state what the people down in Texas are doing. All the farmers and workmen down there are selling off their things and are buying guns. I tell you that this country will be plunged in war if things don't straighten up before long. A war between capital and labor in this country is bound to come out some time, and I believe that this is the starter Jennings says he will also have an army of 150 to lead. His men will go to the Ohio river by way of Franklin.

SOUTH BEND PREPARING.

Police Commissioners Want Patrolmen to Watch Randall's Army.

Police Commissioners Longley, Van Pelt and Mack, of South Bend, Mayor Leeper and Seretary Trump wrote the following letter to Governor Matthews yesterday: "It is reported that Randall's army is moving toward our city, and will probably reach here about Sunday or Monday, in the event of which we deem it advisable to strengthen our police department for the occasion. We would therefore petition your Excellency to instruct the Mayor and police commissioners of our city to ap-point a sufficient number of policemen to preserve the peace while the army remains in our jurisdiction. The instructions to be signed by your Excellency, Secretary, Treasurer and Auditor of State, or a majority of them, as required by law in such

Where they go the idea that the statutes require all the State officials to sanction such instruction the Governor does not know, unless it is from the law creating boards of police commissioners, which vests such appointments in these officials, but does not make any such requirement as they seem to imagine.

BROWNIES IN FAIRYLAND.

Rehearsals for the Flower Mission's Annual Show.

Nearly eleven years ago Mr. Palmer Cox first introduced his now celebrated "Brownies" to the public through the pages of a magazine for children. The unique characters, their funny doings and bright sayings, all so effectively versed by their originator, made the mystic band immediate favorites with the younger readers, and as from month to month they visited new scenes of interest, never failing to get into some perplexing trouble, only to extricate themselves in characteristic style, their circle of acquaintance and popularity rapidly increased. Now scarcely a person, young or old, in the United States, that does not know their peculiar traveis well and take delight in reviewing their latest adventures, witty sayings, and the valuable knowledge so entertainingly imparted. It was a happy thought that led Mr. Cox to construct an entertainment introducing the "Brownles in Fairyland," and he spared no pains to make their debut before the footlights as pleasing as they had been in cold type and black ink, and the ladies of the Flower Mission have this attraction for their annual entertainment, which will take place at English's Opera House, beginning Monday night, May 28, and continuing for one week. About 150 of the 200 children who will appear in the production have already been secured, and the list includes many of the brightest little folks

The first rehearsal will occur Tuesday at 4 o'clock at Prof. Brenneke's dancing at 4 o'clock at Prof. Brenneke's dancing hall on North Pennsylvania street. In a week or ten days a professional instructor will be here to take charge of the children for the final rehearsals. It has not yet been decided who will be the Queen and Prince, but other leading characters will be taken by Charles Pettljohn, Chandler Coenett, Harry Buskirk, Harry Smith, Fred Buskirk, Edwin Felier, John Byran, Rody Hitt, Ray Newcomb, Mary Carey, Effie Young, Gertrude Wyon, Stella Dean, Mabel Snyler, Maud Snyder, Mary Van Winkle, Fredna Scholl, Ada Moore, Emma Allison, Jessie Eckhouse, Fanny Pangborn, Ruth Quigley, Gertrude Schleicher, Fanny Whita, Earle Bowers, Edward Rauch, Frank Demmerly, Hines Share, Walter Eckhouse, Earle White, Richard Fairbanks, Guyler Hawkins, Nellie Demmerly, Bessie Love, Beatrice Sport, Alice Chaf, Nellie Carrie.

musical critic of the Cincinnati Free Press says: "Miss Orlopp played the Romanza Audalusia, by Sarasate, and a Mazurka, by Wieniawski, with very much effect. This hardly fifteen-year-old child is a real violin genius that is rarely found in any conservatory. There are combined in her conservatory. There are combined in her all the faculties and talents which are necessary for the creation of an artist of the highest rank. Her tones are not only strong and full, but highly sympathetic, so that the heart of the hearer is touched at once. She is of the material from which the Nerullas, Milanollos and Powels pre made. Beyond a doubt Miss Orlopp will in a few years be a brilliant star on the musical horizon."

ARREST FOR EVERY OFFENSE.

Superintendent Powell Will Not Wait for Saloon Test Cases.

Shine Brothers, 54 South Illinois street, disclaim any intention of violating the law in opening their place after their license had been revoked by Mayor Denny. They have a small lunch counter in the front part of the room, and have opened merely to serve lunch. Superintendent Powell says that he has given orders to the patrolmen to make an arrest if there is any liquor sold on the premises and to make a separate charge for every sale made. He says the custom has been heretofore in cases of an appeal from the decision of the Police Court on a fine for violation of the liquor law to make no more arrests until the case was finally disposed of in the higher court, but now a different rule will prevail. Patrolmen have been instructed to continue to make arrests in such cases after an appeal has been taken for every violation until the case is decided. Mr. Pow-ell says that he thinks the saloon keeper can walt just as well as the public can,
Mr. Denny said yesterday that he had made no backdown on the question of the revocation of licenses and still believed he had a perfect right to take the action he has taken. He said, however, that he would much prefer to have the case tested sale after he had revoked a license, as in that case the only point for the court to decide would be the right of the Mayor to revoke a license. In the case of Koerner, at present in the court, the Mayor fears that the court will consider only the merits of the case and not take up the question of his power to revoke the license. Mr. Denny simply laughed when asked about the threatened suit of Joseph Gates against him for damages. He said that whether he was right or wrong in the matter his act was the act of an official under the city attorney's construction of the law, and he could not be held individually responsible, even if he was in error.

OPEN ASPHALT SPECIFICATION.

Denver Board of Works Says It Entertains All Comers.

The Board of Works has received a letter from the Denver, Col., Board of Works asking for the latest asphalt paving specifications in Indianapolis.

"And we would like to know," continues the letter, "If you contemplate any change in the specifications whereby any other asphalt can be used besides the so-called Trinidad pitch lake article. Washington, Detroit and Omaha open asphalt paving to all comers and we follow suit. We would also like to get copies of specifications for brick sewers and also for curbing and grading if you have any such."

The board has received letters from several cities asking what position it intended to take on the use of any other than the pitch lake asphalt. The specifications have been changed so that any asphalt as good or better may be used. The first bid of the Bermudez company was received last week.

Stores of Government Witnesses Burned-Maj. Carter's Return. Major Carter, of the Treasury Department, has just returned from another trip to Kentucky, where the authorities made a second haul of counterfeiters. William Walker was taken to Louisville from Salem, Ky., the other day, with three government witnesses, and that same night the stores of the three witnesses at Salem were burned to the ground, Major Carter received a telegram yesterday that Houston Townshend, a noted counterfeiter, had been captured at Winehester, Ky., and taken to Louisville. Townshend had passed seven pieces of counterfeit money recently, and the government has a clear case against him. His father is also behind the bars, not for counterfeiting, but for general cus-sedness and, incidentally, a few murders. He is a mountain desperado and moon-

A Coinacker's Pal Released. Stephen Reibalt, after serving five months in the workhouse here, was discharged yesterday by United States Commissioner Van Buren under the poor convict law. Reibalt is from Sharpsville, Tipton county, and was sent up for passing counterfeit money, which he obtained from "Buck" Harlan, a well-known contacker. The government failed to make a case against Harlan because Reibalt went back on some sort of an agreement to testify against him and re-fused to help Uncle Sam out. Harlan is a shrewd fellow and a slippery one, but the government hopes to land him one of these days. Reibalt was working around for dif-ferent farmers in the vicinity of Sharps-

HE TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

Suicide at the Union Station of an Unknown Man.

Yesterday morning, about 7 o'clock, an employe at the Union Station found a man in the waiting room with carbolic acid trickling from his mouth and blistering his lips. The officer at once supposed that the man had taken the acid with suicidal intent, but the man denied having taken any acid at all. The man further stated that he wished no physician, saying that he would soon recover. City Dispensary physicians were summoned and had him removed to the City Hospital. When the physicians attempted to administer to the rapidly weakening man he shut his teeth and thwarted all efforts to force drugs down his throat. He died within half an hour after arriving at the hospital. Letters addressed to J. W. Roberts, Whiteland, Ind., were found on his person, and these lead Coroner Beck, who has charge of the body, to believe that he is Roberts. He telegraphed to the Whiteland authorities, but at a late hour last night had received no reply.
